DECLARATION OF DISCLOSURE

Under Family Code Sections 2104-2107

Important: To comply with California law, each spouse must disclose ALL material facts and information regarding the existence, character and value of ALL property in which the community has or may have an interest; and each spouse must disclose the amount of ALL debts the community may be obligated to pay. The first 9 pages of this Worksheet will constitute your list of all such assets and debts. When these "Declaration of Disclosure" pages are served on your spouse, along with your Income and Expense Declaration, the disclosure requirement will be satisfied. We will serve each spouse as required by law. If a dispute later arises in your case, this Declaration will be admissible in court. The court has the power to SET ASIDE your judgment if you fail to comply with these disclosure requirements. Therefore, it is extremely important that the information you provide be complete and accurate.

Section 1: Declaration of Disclosure – COMMUNITY PROPERTY ASSETS

A Community Property Asset is anything you owned at date of separation, or now own, that was purchased with money earned during the marriage by either party; IT REMAINS COMMUNITY PROPERTY UNTIL IT IS DIVIDED IN YOUR MSA. Some assets may be mixed community and separate property. If you think you have mixed assets, or have questions about how to determine the value of any asset, consult your Divorce Helpline attorney.

Indicate who is being awarded each asset, or how the interest in each asset is being divided, in the column at right

 You need to consider possible tax consequences before you divide your property between each of you.*

*And if you decide to sell any asset to a third party, it is important that you know the capital gains or other tax consequences of the sale. We strongly recommend that you get expert tax advice from your consulting attorney and from your CPA on this very important subject. ***

If, according to the above definition, you DO NOT have ANY community property assets, please check this box then proceed to "Section 2 – Community Property Debts"

Stock Options Information

Allocation between community and separate property: The first thing you need to know is how many of the options are community property and how many are separate property. There are several types of stock options and several formulas for dividing them. This information is obtained with the help of a qualified professional. Your Divorce Helpline consulting attorney can assist you with referrals.

Taxation: There are generally two types of options (Incentive and Nonqualified) and each has very different tax consequences for you. You should consult with your CPA before you decide how to divide the community options, and before you exercise options or sell stock that is purchased through the exercise of the options.

Division: Once your stock options have been allocated, you and your spouse must decide how they will be handled in your divorce: (1) The options themselves can be divided if the issuing company allows it; (2) The options can be exercised and the shares divided; (3) The options can be sold in a "same day sale" and the proceeds divided; or (4) The employee spouse can keep the options or stock and the other spouse can receive other property or cash as a set-off. Your Divorce Helpline attorney can help you make the decision that's best for you.

Retirement Plan Information

Retirement Plan Valuation and QDROs: Retirement plans are often very valuable assets; each plan has its own peculiarities, and the timing of the division is critical. Each party is entitled to half of the community interest in any retirement benefits or other forms of deferred compensation earned during marriage. All retirement plans must be dealt with in your dissolution, no matter what the value, by (1) each employee keeping his or her own retirement plan, or (2) transferring some or all of the retirement benefit to the non-employee spouse. Pension plans are in a special category because they must be professionally appraised for you to know the present value of your interest. The value of many pension plans is often much higher than the amount that appears on your summary statement. If you choose option (2), you will need two additional court orders: a Joinder and a QDRO. To avoid costly mistakes, call your consulting attorney or CPA for advice before you make your decision about division.

Section 5: Equalization of Division of Community Property

Under the law, spouses are entitled to equal shares of the community property. However, you have the power to agree to an unequal division if you wish. If your division of property is unequal, you may choose to leave it that way, or you can agree to a cash equalization payment to make it come out even. See the examples given below.

5.1 CASH EQUALIZATION PAYMENT

- There is no equalization payment in our agreement.
- Our division of community property assets and debts will be made equal by a payment:
 from Petitioner to Respondent from Respondent to Petitioner in the sum of _____
 To be made on or before (date): _____ or as follows: _____

5.2 PROMISSORY NOTE

- To secure payment, _____ will give _____ a Promissory Note secured by a Deed of Trust.
 The terms are as follows: _____
 Secured by Deed of Trust on which asset? _____

Forms of property division are illustrated as follows. The spouses' names are "Pat" and "Terry."

Equal Division: Each spouse will receive ownership of the following community property:

PAT:		TERRY:
House Equity	$ 100,000	401k	$ 100,000
IRA	50,000	Condo Equity:	75,000
		Community Debts	- 25,000
PAT'S TOTAL:	$ 150,000	TERRY'S TOTAL:	$ 150,000

Unequal Division: Each spouse will receive ownership of the following community property:

PAT:		TERRY:
House Equity	$ 100,000	401k	$ 100,000
IRA	50,000
Condo Equity	75,000
Community Debts	- 25,000
PAT'S TOTAL:	$ 200,000	TERRY'S TOTAL:	$ 100,000

Here's how to compute a cash equalization payment, making the unequal division of community property into an equal division: subtract the lower total (Terry's $100,000) from the higher total (Pat's $200,000), and divide by two.

PAT:		TERRY:
Pat's unequal total	$ 200,000	Terry's unequal total	$ 100,000
Pat pays Terry cash	- 50,000	Terry receives cash	50,000
PAT'S NEW TOTAL:	$ 150,000	TERRY'S NEW TOTAL:	$ 150,000

Is your situation similar to the above? If so, think about how this cash equalization payment will be made: In a lump sum? In payments? If you cannot raise the cash to do this, are there other possibilities? At Divorce Helpline, we have many ideas about how property division can be equalized. Call for an attorney consultation for more information.

Section 17: WILLS

When your divorce is final, it will automatically revoke your bequest to your former spouse in your Will, and also remove your spouse as executor. We strongly suggest that both spouses make a new Will after the dissolution is final.

Section 18: INCOME AND EXPENSE DECLARATIONS

Please check one box for each spouse. We cannot draft your Marital Settlement Agreement until we have received both completed Income and Expense Declarations. If you have any questions about how to complete that form, or how specific or exact you may need to be in any of the sections of that form, please call for attorney assistance.

For Petitioner: Petitioner's completed Income and Expense Declaration is attached.
 Petitioner's completed Income and Expense Declaration was previously returned.

For Respondent: Respondent's completed Income and Expense Declaration is attached.

MEDIATION AGREEMENT

We, Respondent and Petitioner, have chosen mediation as the method to complete our divorce, and have asked Hardin, Pollock & Woodcock, Attorneys and Mediators, to act in a neutral capacity to provide education in the law and help us to solve any problems in reaching agreement. If a dispute later arises regarding any provision of the Marital Settlement Agreement, we agree that the Declaration of Disclosure made in the Worksheet and signed by both of us may be submitted to the court as evidence, if required. However, any statements made during mediation by us or by the mediators, whether oral or in writing, shall remain confidential and will not be brought in as evidence. We will not require the mediator to testify in any court-related hearing.

INSTRUCTIONS, UNDERSTANDINGS AND AGREEMENT

We jointly instruct Hardin, Pollock & Woodcock, Attorneys and Mediators, to prepare the Marital Settlement Agreement in our case. We understand that the provisions of our Marital Settlement Agreement will supersede any agreements we have made previously, whether oral or in writing. We agree that only after the Marital Settlement Agreement is notarized and signed by us, and accepted by the court, will its provisions be binding as a judgment of the court.
